VICTIMS OVERCOME

Motorists Fail to Stop Auto Engines

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 10.—Twenty-five persons were overcome by carbon monoxide gas in the Liberty tunnel, leading from the south hills into downtown Pittsburgh today when two automobiles crashed 200 yards from the north entrance and jammed traffic for a mile and a quarter to the south entrance. Panic followed.

Result of Strike

The accident is a direct result of the traffic strike as the Liberty tunnel is a foot and a half wide and thousands were walking through the passage to work.

When the two machines crashed, other motorists in the tunnel jammed the passengers. Motorists failed to turn off their engines, believing the wreckage would soon be cleared up and carbon monoxide gas filled the air.

Overcome by Fumes

Pedestrians and persons in automobiles were overcome by the deadly fumes.

Ambulances and police patrols were ordered to the tunnel. A main rescue squad from the bureau of mines headquarters here was summoned to carry out the victims.

Firemen, equipped with gas masks, rushed into the smoke filled tunnel, carrying out the ill and unconscious victims. Homes in the vicinity of the tunnel were turned into temporary hospitals.

LIVINGSTON, Texas, May 10.—Ed Henderson, 40, negro, was sentenced to death by electrocution here Friday following an arrest and immediate trial that made history in the folk court.

Henderson was arrested Monday morning for assault upon a young white woman. He was immediately spirited out of the county to prevent a lynching. Monday night Judge J. E. Maney arranged for a grand jury and Tuesday morning the negro was indicted at the earliest possible moment. He was held in the county jail until the evidence in the case was out of the jury box but five minutes, returning the death sentence. A few seconds afterwards the condemned man was on his way to Huntsville under a heavy guard.

DISTRICT BOARD IS AUTHORIZED

Reciprocity Program Decided at Beaumont Meet

NATIONAL AD CAMPAIGN Steps Taken to Jointly 'Sell' District to World

First definite step for the unification of activities in the Sabine district for mutual benefit of the five cities therein was taken at Beaumont last night when representatives from the Chambers of Commerce of Port Arthur, Beaumont, Orange, Nederland and Port Neches outlined a preliminary course of action.

Port Arthur Next

Port Arthur was chosen as the city which will entertain the next meeting of the Sabine district. The meeting will be called sometime between now and next July 1. At that time a report from five men, one representative each from the five cities in the district, will be submitted. Recommendations as to membership, operation and scope of work of the association to be formed will be submitted to the group.

The old slogan, "Port Arthur and one for all" was predominant at the Beaumont meeting. With a slight exception the 65 representative Chamber of Commerce members and officials from the quietest of cities indicated in what is termed the Sabine district, were ready to meet a program of reciprocity.

That the Sabine district needed to be "sold" to the world was one case in point. At the meeting, that whatever good came to the district, it should be shared by all. The separate units of the district were another mutual conclusion. Finally that better results could be obtained by the five units working in harmony than in a blind method of each following its own course, was an opinion all seemed to share.

CLEAR ROBBERY OF 20 HOMES

Negro Cook Confesses Long Crime Record to Police

Robbery of more than 20 homes in Port Arthur was cleared today with the capture Friday of a negro after a sensational pursuit which has been carried on since the middle of last February, officers said.

A negro who gives his name as Isaac Garrett, living in the rear of 2114 Foster street, late Friday pointed out to the police more than 20 homes which he admits he has burglarized. Garrett has been employed as a cook at the Texas Central. It is thought by the police that he is not the man who has been prowling in Port Arthur recently.

Sought Since February

Pursuit of the negro has been carried on since the middle of February by Officer V. G. Brizendine and J. L. Wyndels, superintendent of the identification department, which led to his arrest in Beaumont.

The chase of the negro began when he entered a house at 1001 Teal street and dropped his hat when pursued by the occupants of the house. The hat contained the initials "I. G." and served as practically the only clue for the police to work upon.

Garrett was picked up by Officer Brizendine when he boarded the same interurban bound for Beaumont on which the officer was riding.

Charges of burglary were filed against him this morning. Photographs and finger prints of the negro were taken this morning by Wyndels.

Friends Wait Spirit Note To Clear Up Dead Man's Name

Writer's Death Parallels Story from His Own Pen

'He Robbed Me,' Says Chauffeur; 'No,' Say Pals

By A. H. FREDERICK News Staff Writer

SAN JOSE, Calif., May 10.—A strange fantasy was born in the brain of Homer Eon Flint, writer of fiction, and he put it into print. Now his mysterious death parallels that fantasy.

There remains but one phenomenon to complete the similitude—that his fingers will stretch from beyond the grave to write full explanation of the mystery.

His typewriter, standing in his former workshop, awaits his touch, a sheet of paper ready.

THE highmark in Flint's career was reached in a short story, "The Greater Miracle," published in 1921. Flint was a firm believer in spiritualism, and the central character in the story returned from the grave to clear his name.

The spirit character wrote his message upon a typewriter which had been prepared for him.

FLINT's body was found at the bottom of a precipice under the wreckage of a taxicab.

"He hired me to drive from Oakland to a small village several miles away," says the owner of that taxi, J. S. Handley. "Everything went along all right until we came to a lonely road."

"Then he drew a gun, made me throw up my hands, robbed me of my money and made me get out of the car."

"He drove away up the road."

HANDLEY's story is scoffed at by his friends who best know Flint.

"He was happy and carefree when he left me," says his brother, with whom Flint spent his last afternoon. "He was in no immediate need of money," and his friends. "In fact, he had just completed arrangements to send a serial story for a good price."

"It is absurd to believe that he would have committed such a crime," declares his widow, now teaching school to support her three children.

SO, those who know him have left his typewriter in his workshop, with paper in it, ready for Flint to answer the statements of the taxi driver, to explain his death and remove suspicion from his name.

Each day they look at that paper, but its smooth white surface is not touched. Flint has not explained.

Blond or Brunet? You Can Be Either

Parisian women are now catering to the likes of their friends by being blond or brunet at will. This they accomplish with wigs of course. Parisian hairdressers are doing a thriving business in wigs and the newest fashion of bobbed hair facilitates the wearing of them.

Photos show Mme. Suzanne Preville, French movie star (who in private life is Madame Forger, wife of the movie director), with her natural black hair and her blond wig.

Better Homes Week Here

Week of Splendid Educational Features Planned in First Event of Its Kind in Port Arthur

With plans for one of the biggest celebrations of its kind completed and a prize list totalling several hundred dollars to be awarded local persons, local furniture dealers combined today to make the "Better Homes Week" which opens here Monday, one of the most successful enterprises, both in an educative and educational way, that any business has undertaken in Port Arthur.

The work of educational features will extend for one week from Monday, with style show Monday and Tuesday nights.

The cars, selections, maintenance, costs, credits, and arrangements of furniture and furnishings will be fully explained in every detail during the week and Port Arthur furniture dealers will "go out of the way" to help educate citizens here to a higher plane of understanding regarding the choice of their home furnishings.

The program calls for music and two big style shows during the week, and the stores will probably remain open during the evenings the various parts of the program are being carried out.

FATAL BATTLE BEFORE PUPILS

Grapples With Wife Slayer, Who Is Killed

NEWATON, Okla., May 10.—James A. Keefover, 35, of Newatton, Okla., was shot to death by Clarence Knight, 24, school principal, in a gun battle here yesterday afternoon after slaying his estranged wife when attempts at reconciliation proved futile.

Keefover was not arrested. A note found in the dead man's pocket bore testimony that he intended to kill his wife and commit suicide. He read "bury us together."

Pupils See Tragedy

Keefover went to the Knight home where his wife had been staying with relatives shortly after noon and the couple quarreled. Mr. Keefover and Mrs. Knight fled to the school house nearby with Keefover in pursuit. As the couple entered the school room Keefover fired at his wife with a revolver killing her instantly, according to the testimony of school children who witnessed the killing.

Flies in Self Defense

Knight, school principal, grappled with the slayer who broke away and fled in his automobile. After driving a short distance Keefover left his car and started back to the school house. Knight saw his approach and secured a revolver.

Keefover fired upon the school principal and was instantly killed when Knight returned the fire.

Keefover and his wife had been separated for several weeks and he had been living in California.

MAITRE NAMED VICE PRESIDENT

Louisiana, Texas, Delegations Carry Fight

BREACH SMOOTHED

Local Man's Election Removes Differences

Special to The News

LONG BEACH, Calif., May 10.—Following a rigid balloting in which the instructed bloc of delegates from Louisiana and Texas put up a stiff fight for Henry Maitre of Port Arthur as president, the Port City labor leader was elected vice president of the International Association of Refinery Workers, Gas and Oil Field Drillers, in the convention now in session in Long Beach, Calif., and Port Arthur chosen as the 1925 convention city.

Maitre Gets $5,000 Office

Other International officers elected include:

H. H. Stickle of Long Beach, president; J. L. Conter of Long Beach, secretary-treasurer.

In his new capacity, Maitre does not necessarily have to maintain an office in the international headquarters at Long Beach, but may remain in Port Arthur if he so desires. The office has a stipulated salary of $5,000 per annum.

The 1925 convention is being held in Long Beach, Calif., in the city of the kind in the national headquarters for the international body. The Texas and Louisiana delegates went to the conference instructed to vote in a bloc for Maitre as president over Stickle, and put up a strong fight for their candidate.

Two years ago Stickle opposed President Sheehan who was elected on an instructed vote. Stickle carried the election to the highest tribunal of organized labor, the American Federation of Labor, who after a year ruled Stickle president.

The fight, as recalled in the history of the International Refinery Workers, was a bitter one, and created much discussion, electioneers going to practically all local offices of the body in the country to urge support of Stickle. Meanwhile, President Sheehan was serving in the office.

In Port Arthur Maitre is financial secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Council, treasurer of the local Refinery Workers' union, reading clerk of the State Federation of Labor, and has been a delegate from Port Arthur to a number of labor conventions.

It is believed by labor members that his election to the vice presidency will help to smooth over the breach caused by the long-drawn Stickle-Sheehan fight and result in a stronger union.

ROMANCE FLEES, BUT GETS $5000

Belgian Girl Wins Third Fight Against Student

TORONTO, May 10.—Walter Wood McKee, Toronto law student, has lost the third and final round of his best battle with his former Belgian sweetheart, Marietta Van Hoorde.

The supreme court of Canada, although with two justices dissenting, has dismissed McKee's appeal from the finding of the appellate division of Ontario, which awarded Marietta Van Hoorde $5,000 damages for breach of promise.

The case is the culmination of a wartime romance, and one which has engaged the public attention here for the last two years. McKee and Marietta Van Hoorde met first in Brussels in 1914. Six years later, while McKee was a student at Cambridge, England, they renewed their friendship and became engaged.

McKee, at that time was dependent upon his father, and claims that an understanding existed that the father would not be married until the girl's consent was obtained.

In 1921 McKee failed in his examinations at Cambridge and was expelled to Canada by his father. He wrote to Miss Van Hoorde telling her that he could not think of marrying at that time, and that he could not ask her to wait. The girl, however, followed him to Canada, and brought suit for breach of promise.

The case came to Ontario's supreme court, where McKee sought and obtained a new trial in the appellate division, which only resulted in the awarding of a higher sum than that previously granted. Miss Van Hoorde, he then appealed to the supreme court of the Dominion, which has now sustained the finding of the lower courts.

Kin Accept Aged Man as Lost Brother Stolen 53 Years Ago

Robert T. Clark Identified As Freddie Lieb, Kidnaped When Five Years Old In Quincy, Ill.

Quincy, Ill., May 10.—The kidnapping of Freddie Lieb, 53 years ago, may be cleared up by the appearance of a gray haired man who claims to be the stolen child. He has dropped the name of Robert T. Clark and assumed the name of the kidnapped boy—Freddie Lieb. He has been accepted by C. H. Lieb of Minneapolis and Mrs. Jessie Lieb of Quincy, Minn., as their brother.

Clark, after spending several days in Quincy, where his father died a year ago, checking traces of the family, left today for Minneapolis.

Freddie Lieb was kidnaped when five years old. He had toddled from his home in Quincy, Illinois, to a nearby carriage yard to play. He never returned. At the time his father, a music professor, was in Chicago arranging a contract for singing in clubs.

The distraught and hysterical mother waited a day and then sent this message:

"Freddie missing since seven last night. No trace of him. Come at once."

Professor Lieb hurried home. He devoted his life to searching for the child. He traveled to all parts of the country looking for clues without result.

Freddie had a beautiful tone voice and his parents believed he might have been stolen by a circus and trained to be a singing boy.

According to Clark's story, he was reared in the home of Ervin T. Winter of Quincy, Ill. He said his family abused him and forced him to work in a mill, where his voice was ruined.

When he was 18 years old he said he was told by one of the Winter children that he was not a member of the family. Soon after he ran away and never lived with them again. He attended the general of Miss Winter when he was 20 and was at that time when he was told he had been kidnaped by a woman at Quincy when a child.

Four notes were found on his body which were identical with marks on the body of the kidnapped boy. People here who knew the family, said Clark had a great resemblance to the Lieb.

The first idea that he was Freddie Lieb came to him, Clark said, when he read in a newspaper of the death of the Professor Lieb, a picture taken of the kidnapped boy shortly before he disappeared, was reproduced. He said he had an exact likeness of the newspaper cut, which had been given him by his foster parents.

Thrift Essays Written for

First National Bank by Pupils of Port Arthur Public Schools

What is thrift? When people speak of thrift do you really know what it means? It means economical management. By this we mean to live on a more economical plan or basis.

Do not spend your money foolishly but only what is necessary and then try to save in this. This does not mean you are to do without all pleasures but choose wisely in these.

A thrifty person did not begin to save when he was grown but when he was a child he saved his pennies and formed a habit of saving and then when he became older he was accustomed to saving so he kept it up. Everyone knows the old saying, "A penny saved is a penny earned."

If on pay days everyone would take as much money as they could and put it in the bank they would soon have saved enough to own their own home instead of having to pay such high rent. They would be glad they could say, "I saved the money with which I bought my home."

Champion Prison Guard Never Tried Escape

COLEMAN, Ohio, May 10.—John Ford, free, and the Ohio state penitentiary has lost the best watchman it ever had.

It was back in 1910 that John Ford came to the prison. He was convicted of first degree murder, but the jury recommended life imprisonment and he was sent from the electric chair.

Price Russell, member of the state board of elements, knows Ford's story and he wrote it. His story was Ford's freedom for Governor A. V. Donahy commuted his sentence to expire at once. Here is his story:

"John Ford, No. 12,227, Ohio penitentiary, came to the institution January 18, 1910, from Montgomery county, having been convicted of first degree murder, with recommendation of mercy. Sentence life.

Watchman at the Gate

Ford is the watchman at the big west gate of the Ohio penitentiary. He has been the watchman for years. The watchman keeps him there because he is faithful and violates no trust. He opens the gate for those who have a right to come and go and he closes it against all others.

Close by is a poultry house. He feeds and cares for the chickens and keeps the pen "scraps" clean.

The case he made for the current residence and a little institutional service arises out of that. But Ford is always there, always watching the gate.

Children pass. Ford watches them because they remind him of little folks who used to sit upon his knee. Of small children that used to clasp and stroke his own. He recognizes the endless stream of humanity go by. He wonders where they are going and what they have to do. He would like to join the throng. He cannot do so because he is No. 12,227, Ohio penitentiary, and he is the watchman at the gate.

He reads his Bible

The day after Ford goes to his cell opens at random a thumb-nailed Bible and reads a chapter. He says a prayer—a little, unselfish prayer for everybody. Then to bed, because he must be up before some other.

You know he is the watchman at the gate.

It is an old case. No detailed story of the crime is to be found among the formal papers. However, we gather from correspondence on file and from talks with this colored inmate that he had been keeping company with one Tamara Stewart.

Answers Boys' Baseball Questions

What Is the Best Play You Ever Saw?

By Eddie Collins (Written Exclusively for This Page.)
I have always found this one of the most difficult questions to answer. Having participated in twenty-three hundred or more American League games, numerous world series and countless other exhibition games, it is pretty hard to pick out one particular play as being the best. The stage of the game, the closeness of the score, the situation under which the play is performed, have a lot to do with the determination of the best play. As far as actual performance is concerned, I saw Tris Speaker make a catch of a fly ball in Cleveland one day in a league game, when he actually ran up the side of the concrete wall that surrounds the outfield, that I don't see how it could have been beaten.

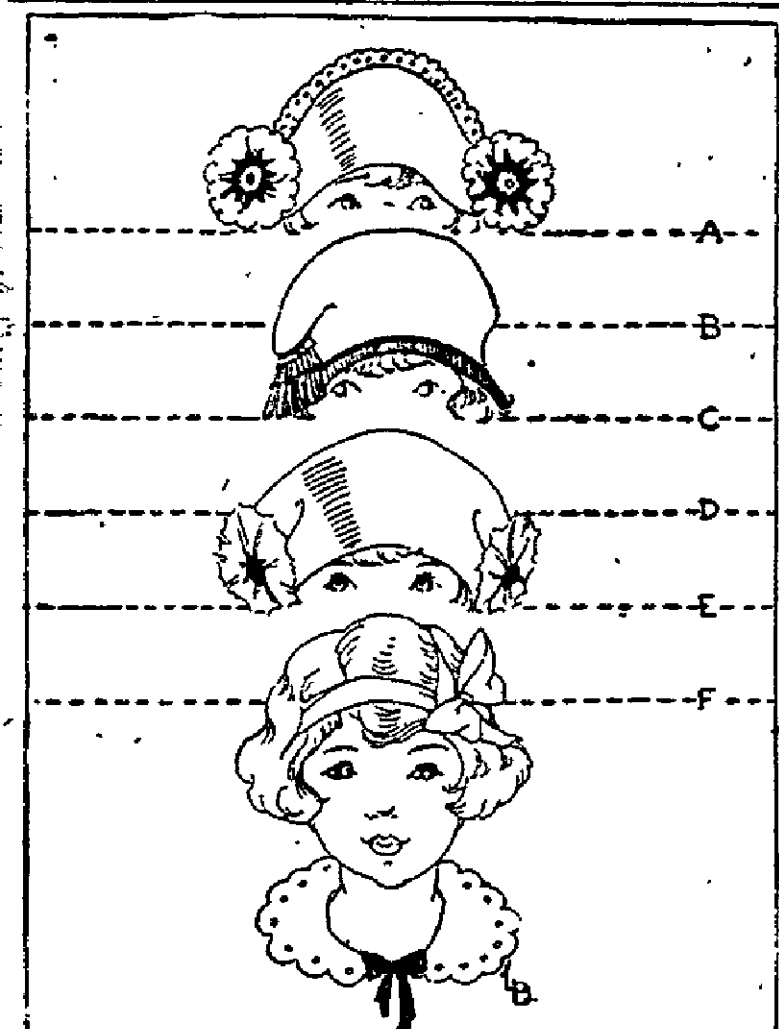

But the play that stands out so much more than any wonderful play which I have seen is a double play that Barry and Melvin made when they were with the Athletics in the World Series against the Braves in 1914. The manner of accomplishment, a seemingly impossible stop, force out and throw, that took less time than its telling, and an equally remarkable catch of a throw on Stuffy's part, while stretched out at full length on his side—bare hand side, too—with a World Series setting and everything taken into consideration, I think I would term this as the best that I can recall.

What Do You Do in the Winter Time?

In replying to this query, I am assuming winter time means the period extending from the close of the baseball season to the start for spring training. I am not a great many of the ball players, I am in no way occupied in the off season. It has been my privilege for the last two falls to go into the Maine woods on an extended hunting trip of about three weeks, immediately following the close of the season. I guess football gets most of my attention—not as a participant any more, although at the time I was in college I actually enjoyed playing that game more than baseball.

When not otherwise engaged I play quite a bit of golf. I don't know of any game that affords so much opportunity for sociability and good fellowship or one that I enjoy more. After Christmas, when most of the outdoor sports are over, I manage to engage in some light exercise, the nature of which I will discuss under another heading; but, generally speaking, I do not do much active work the first two months of the year.

AN ATTRACTIVE SUMMER HAT THAT ANY GIRL CAN MAKE

MAKE A GINGHAM HAT OF THE POPULAR POKE STYLE TO MATCH A SUMMER FROCK. THE MATERIALS MAY BE BOUGHT FOR $1.

CUT A PAPER PATTERN FOR THE CROWN. THEN LAY THE SECTIONS ON CLOTH.

The favorite summer frock should have a hat to match it, especially if there happens to be a yard or less of material left from the dress. The rest of the equipment for making the simple poke hat shown above may be purchased for a few cents. These are the materials to use:
1/2 yd. buckram ..... $0.20
1/2 yd. gingham ..... .44
2 yds. ribbon (1 in. wide) ..... .30
1 skein emb. thread ..... .03
$0.97

There's your hat for a bargain price! And in estimating the cost we've used the most expensive materials rather than the cheapest, so if you are lucky in getting good prices you may perhaps make your hat for seventy-five cents. Gingham is not the only material to use, of course. Cretonne is inexpensive and comes in pretty patterns. Linen or pique are particularly nice. If your material is twenty-seven inches wide, you'll need the full 1 1/2 yards listed. If it is thirty-six inches, 3/4 of a yard will be enough.

Cut your brim from a fifteen-inch circle of buckram. You had better make a paper pattern first to avoid mistakes. Cut a lower and top covering of material for the brim, allowing 1/2 inch on each edge to turn under. Cut two pie-shaped pieces from the material as well as from the brim, allowing again a margin.

Sew the brim together to make a drooping shape, then slant off the back as the dotted line shows, leaving only an inch at the center back.

Sew a headband of buckram, one inch around the tabs at the crown to make a more secure frame. Then put on the material as in Fig. 4. It should be fastened around the crown first, then pulled tight to the edge at the outside. Bind it with your ribbon or cotton bias tape.

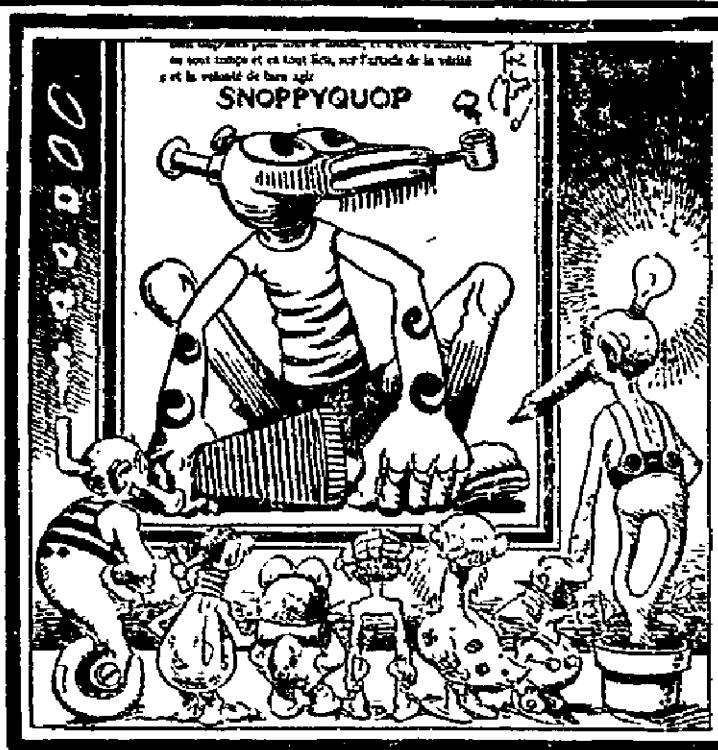

Cut the crown from paper, allowing 1/2 inch extra on all edges for seams. Lay the sections on your material as in No. 7. Cut, then sew the sections firmly together and turn in the seams. When you sew the crown to the brim, you may find that the crown is a little too large. If so, put a gathering string in it and draw it down to the brim size. Place most of the gathers at the back. Darning stitches of black thread sewed over and over make a nice finish for all edges and seams. Use the remainder of your ribbon in a bow around the crown, sew in a lining taken from a discarded hat, and you're ready to parade in your handiwork!

EXTRA! SNOPPYQUOPS GIVE A BIG PARTY FOR MURRAY

This is the first Snoppyquop that was ever drawn. It is published here today in celebration of the birthday of Peg Murray, papa of all the Snoppyquops. It hung on the side wall of the banquet chamber where the Snoppyquops gave a big shindig today beginning with soup and ending with salted peanuts and speeches. After presenting Mr. Murray with a stem-winding toothbrush, a gift from all the Snoppyquops, Will Barrow, the toastmaster, asked Mr. Murray how old he is today. "Not very," said Mr. Murray. He then made an elaborate "thank you" speech after which he gave an explanation of how he came to invent Snoppyquops. Peg drew Snoppy in a French class in college when he was supposed to be listening to the professor. Now he gets money for them. Pretty soft, isn't it?

THE FIRST SNOPPYQUOP THAT WAS EVER MADE

Text of Mr. Murray's Address:
In answer to numerous requests from readers I took a few minutes in hand to write this speech telling the anxiously waiting world how Snoppyquops happened to be. One little jumping bean in Tijuana, Mexico, wanted to know if I ate too much mince pie before going to bed and then dreamed them. Well, the truth is that in 1915 I was wasting my time in a French class at Stanford University trying to sleep and look wise all at once. We were translating "Francis le Champi", whatever that means, and whenever we'd come to a page with very little French and lots of white paper on it, I would draw a picture. Then when I'd get home at night my nine-year-old sister, Lydia (who is now a bobbed-haired, freckleman at Stanford) would be very much interested in the drawings.

"Who's this?" she'd ask, "what's this one's name?" So I'd have to make up a foolish title for each picture. They were "Snoppyquops", and "Giggleguops", and "Whifflepoos", but "Snoppyquop" was the name she liked the best, so she'd always say, "Please draw me a Snoppyquop." I saved the very first one, and here it is hanging in the Snoppyquop art gallery.

MOTHER'S DAY

Today is the second Sunday in May and is therefore Mother's Day. It has been set aside as the day on which to honor the Best Mother who ever lived—Your Mother. Its object is to recall the memories of the mothers who have gone and through loving words and loving care to brighten the lives of the mothers who remain.

The white carnation is the Mother's Day flower. Its whiteness stands for purity; its form, beauty and fragrance for love; its wide field of growth, charity; its lasting quality, faithfulness—all a true Mother's virtues.

Since the founding of Mother's Day by Miss Anna Jarvis of Philadelphia, the custom of its celebration has spread over the continent. You may read below some of the Mother's Day sentiments as they have been expressed by the poets.

WHO'LL wear a rose for Mother's Day.

A half open rose and white Plucked in the morning while the dew

That gathered over night: To kiss its petals like a gem In its pure heart appears. As pure and sweet as a mother love. As rare as mother's tears?

—Judd Mortimer Lewis

WE BREATHED it first with Mother's Day.

When cradled in her arms we lay: Fond memories 'round that name are hung. That will not, cannot pass away.

We breathed it then, we breathe it still. More dear than sister, friend or brother. The gentle power, the magic thrill, Awakened at the name of Mother.

—Fanny J. Crosby

WHO is it toils with untiring feet For those she loves, with a courage sweet

Ne'er to fail all, and from toil of day and night

Draws on her dear ones till morning light.

—Thomas Curtis Clark

TRIPS WITH BIRDS

THE WARBLER FAMILY

The robin and the bluebird have been settled in their nests a month or more and are busy at rearing young ones before the many men-

The yellow face, black helmet and large number of white tail-feathers distinguish the hooded warbler from other birds of the family.

bers of the warbler family make their appearance about this time in May. You can begin to see them among the shrubs and like bushes, late arrivals from the island of the Caribbean, the Gulf of Mexico and the heart of South America where they live.

The wood warblers and all the various family connections are a general tiny birds which are seldom seen on the ground, choosing rather to swing in treetops or hide themselves in the depths of shrubbery. They are called "chiffchaffs" birds, as they possess very slender delicate beaks adapted to pecking in the soil for their dinners. The warblers' trail bill would be easily smashed if used in the way the sparrow, for instance, uses his.

Many of the warblers have yellow and black combinations of coloring, but there are distinct members with plumage of fanciful variety and manifold hues. The high range of their song is remarkable, being above the highest tones of the key on a piano. Perhaps it is because they are small and are therefore at the mercy of larger birds that might attack them that they travel the thousands of miles between their winter and summer homes during the night instead of in daylight. Often they perch on the way, flying into electric light wires or beating their wings against light-houses.

Warblers seem to know little fear of humans, for the bird student may even approach a nest and stroke the mother bird's back during brooding time.

Five thousand miles is no unusual trip for the Black-throated warbler to take from his tropical home in Peru, where he winters, to points far north as Hudson Bay for summer nesting. His nest is sometimes built eight feet above the ground in the branches of a tall spruce or hemlock. There he flutters from one limb to another, a nervous, restless little fellow with a high, wiry, penetrating song that grows even more shrill at the end.

The hooded warbler is one of the most attractive members of the family, a gentle, leisurely bird. He flies from Panama, his wintering spot, to haunts as far north as Michigan, making only about thirty-three miles a day, a distance which he can fly in less than an hour.

England had 103—29 men and 74 women, while Wales could only show 7, six of whom were females.

RUSSIA PREPARING FOR BUMPER GRAIN CROPS

MOSCOW, May 10.—Russia expects to have a "satisfactory" crop in 1934, according to a statement issued by the Central Statistical Bureau.

Due to the fact that most of the land already sown is still covered with snow, the statement must be taken for what it is worth. It is based on reports available from the southern part of the Caucasus, where the fall stand of crops was very satisfactory.

The reports from the northern part of the Caucasus and from the Trans-Caucasus steppes are less favorable.

The report is largely based on the fact that in European Russia there was a steady and normal snowfall. In the northeast only the snowfall was below normal.

Pregarin, head of the "Grain Export" Section of the state, hopes to export grain heavily this fall. He has just returned from a trip to Germany, England and Holland, where he conferred with foreign capitalists on securing aid to finance the crop and build new grain elevators.

Pregarin says Russia is competing successfully with American-grown grain, especially rice.

LETTER FROM JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT TO STONEY CARTON

Was glad to get your telegram, old man, for it told me that you were really on the road to recovery. Both Leslie and I are very, very glad that you are going to spend some of the time of your convalescence in our city, and we wish most heartily that we had room in that little apartment of ours to put you up.

You did not state when you are coming, consequently I am writing to say that Leslie is called to New York this evening to welcome her parents home. You remember her younger sister, Alice? She is going to marry to-day that was no secret on Leslie's part. I wish him joy with her, but I am a friend of Leslie's and I can't understand why he could transfer his affections to that ambitious, self-centered, egotistical little mortal. Between you and me I bet she roped him in. She is sure to be one of those mannish women, and I pity Whitney from the bottom of my heart.

Of course I haven't said anything of this to Leslie, for I am sure she didn't hear a word very much. I'll bet, however, in the future she will be happier if she doesn't see much of the Whitneys.

Leslie hopes that you will not come to us until after she has returned from New York. She won't be there but two or three days, however. In the meantime my mother is coming over. She will not stay at our house (she was quite horrified to find out that we hadn't a guest chamber waiting for somebody to occupy it). V. W. however, were able to find her a small apartment, one that Leslie's mother occupied when she was here.

I don't know how long mother will stay, but she is bringing her nurse and companion with her and I fancy there will be many times that she will wish to be alone. Consequently I think the arrangement is better than as if she were cooped up in our apartment with Leslie, the baby as well as myself, whom you know are not always the easiest person to live with.

I wonder if I talked to you very much about my secretary, Mrs. Sally Atherton, when I was down there. Of course I know I mentioned her to you quite frequently, but did I tell you anything about her peculiar sentimental biases. She came back from the funeral of her husband the day I returned, and settled down immediately to the routine of business. She would not allow me to mention her husband's name to her—told me that he had been a stranger, almost, to her for a long while.

I want you to meet her, Syd. I think you will be fascinated by her. I have never had a man come into my office, that could keep his eyes off of her, and yet she is not a pretty woman, and pays very little attention to her clothes. Her hair is bobbed and straight, and the mostly dressed in tweed suits, and yet, with all her assumption of mannishness, she is the most feminine thing I have ever known in my life. She stirs your senses before she speaks.

Hashtly, JACK.

COURT PLAN TO BE G.O.P. PLANK

Another Conference Hinges On D-was Plan Outcome
WASHINGTON, May 10.—Foreign affairs, including the administration's plans for bringing about another disarmament conference and the Coolidge and Hughes position on world court membership, are to take a more prominent place from now on in the presidential campaign.

Recent developments include Mr. Coolidge's suggestion of another conference to talk of disarming providing the Dawes report brings about European stability; his reference to Harding world court in rather vague but favorable terms; the beginning by the senate foreign relations committee of hearings on the Harding plan, and finally, the introduction by Senator Lodge of a substitute for the Harding court proposal.

Lodge's substitute is destined to bring about creation of a world court divorced from the league of nations.

His plan will serve as a basis of discussion in the campaign, it is believed, as democratic orators are known to be preparing to launch an attack upon the administration for the delay in acting upon the world court plan left with the senate by Harding.

MANY PIECES MAIL
ARE MIS-DIRECTED

PHILADELPHIA, May 10.—Two million pieces of mail, including letters, parcels and packages, are reported in Philadelphia every year which never get to the persons expecting them. They are sent to the cemetery of the Post Office Department, the Dead Letter Office.

It is the little orphan pieces of mail for which no homes can be found that go to Washington into the dead-letter office, 7,500 of them every week. Much of this matter is there traced back to the sender, but lots more of it is declared hopelessly homeless and is treated as such.

A number of articles for which no owner can be found are sent to New York and sold. Violins, mah jong sets, scrubbing boards, galoshes, dresses—everything imaginable makes up the motley array.

KLAN UPSSETS DOPE

INDIANAPOLIS, May 10.—Out of the wreckage left in the path of Tuesday's primary election, Indianapolis political leaders today were starting to rebuild their campaign plans and trying to measure the strength of a new power in state politics—the Ku Klux Klan.

From the governorship race down to the contest over local offices, the primary was marked by surprises and upsets. Election returns did not come in the way politicians had figured they were going to. The Klan had been to the polls.

Elks Ready to Clash With Dixie Flyers Here Tomorrow

Local Ball Nine In Fit Shape for Big Battle on Lakeshore

By BILL ARCHER

BARRING additional rainfall here today, and with even half-day fair weather prevailing tomorrow, members of the local Elks will take up their favored positions on the diamond at Lakeshore to tangle up with the Dixie Flyers from Beaumont. The game will be called tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, promptly.

The Flyers constitute the strongest semi-professional ball line in the North End this season, and have numerous players on the squad that have starred in seasons past with the Magnolia Oil League and other similar organizations. Several of the boys have played baseball throughout all parts of Louisiana, while others of the squad have been recognized in amateur and amateur circles as "the best" for seasons past.

Bringing Real Ball Nine

In short, as they herald the tidings, the Dixie Flyers are bringing along a real ball nine to trim the Elks, and the Elks are turning out "40 strong" determined the visitors shall have their hands full winning at all.

Cliff Goun, probable skipper of the local nine, is Mark Leach's time to start on the rubber again, and since Mack's striking arm is considerably warmed up and in somewhat great shape for the season, the local pitching line ought to have an artificial hand of baseball tomorrow. Carl Smith, former T. C. U. star and well-known in the City League loop last season as one of the Gulf championship men, will do the pitching task.

Elks Probable Lineup

Although Goun has not announced the remainder of his lineup, it will probably include Ray Davis at initial base, "Tommy" Romero on second, "Moose" Innes at short, Captain Frank Morgan on third, and Burch, Philbrick and Hooker probably in the outfield.

Innes, high school athlete and star of last season's football machine of Yellow Jacket fame, looked like the proverbial "million dollars" on short up at Lakeshore last Sunday; of eleven chances, he accepted and fielded all perfectly, and is considered by the Elks as a new find. He will probably get an opportunity to strut his stuff on the home lot tomorrow at the new post.

Just as the Flyers are bringing along has not been announced, but it is known that they have met the Sulphur players and have nearly won them out 1 to 0, and the Organizers, who won a close game from the Flyers.

IRISH CHAMP!

Mr. Gilmore of Dublin Confounds Reporters by Spurning Corned Beef and Cabbage, to Say Nothing of "Begorra"

BILLY GILMORE

By JOE WILLIAMS

NEW YORK, May 16.—The trouble, if any, with Billy Gilmore, recently arrived from Dublin with the lightweight championship of Ireland, is that he fails to sustain any of the popular illusions which factiousists have associated with that country, and its picturesque citizenry.

For instance, Mr. Gilmore does not smoke a clay pipe. On greeting reporters and other undesirables, he does not say, "Begorra, I'm glad to meet you, boys." He expresses no uncontrovertible passion for corned beef and cabbage and mention of the king of England does not bring the flush of anger to his face.

It is going to be hard for those of us who take our romance from printed pages to warm up to Mr. Gilmore as a legitimate representative of the Emerald Isle. Aside from his rich, dark brown, the young scot seems to be just an average person. He even lacks the hellish note now expected to find in a champion fighter from a champion fighting country.

Best One of the Maloney Boys

Mr. Gilmore is here looking for digital business. He thinks he would like to take on Charley White or Pat Moran as a starter and then advance by easy steps to a championship match with Benny Leonard.

Mr. Gilmore admits, considering Leonard an excellent fighter. "Most of the Jewish fighters are for that matter," he adds, by way of further astonishing.

Gilmore won the Irish championship last October by defeating Tommy Maloney—and sure you're heard of the Maloneys—on points in Dublin. Apparently the newcomer seems largely to science as distinguished from wallop, a characteristic acquired from the Britishers with whom he got his early fistic training. His unmarked features attest to his fine defensive skill.

We Need An Irish Lightweight

It has been a long time since the ring had an outstanding Irish light-weight, and once since an Irishman ruled the division as champion. This is strange, too, for the division has a glorious tradition. McAniff, for instance, emphatically Irish, retired undefeated, a distinction owned by no other champion.

Gans, the negro, Nelson the Dane and Wolquist the Dutchman, made unforgettable rings in subsequent years. There was some Irish in Ritchie, who succeeded Wolquist. Welsh, who came next, was from Wales, and Leonard is a business man, and a damned good one, as most Hebrew lads are.

REAL ACTION IN BIG SHOW

Western Clubs Invade The Eastern Strongholds

NEW YORK, May 16.—Real action in the major leagues starts today with the first general international games between the eastern and western clubs. The strong western club of the American League, invade the east and the eastern National League teams are starting their final trip around the western circuit.

The White Sox open in New York; the Indians in Philadelphia; the Browns in Boston and the Tigers in Washington.

The Giants start in St. Louis; the Red Sox in Chicago; the Braves play their second game in Pittsburgh and the poor Phils open in Cincinnati.

With only a night lead the Giants will leave watching in their first test of the season against the strong western club which are expected to give them their hardest fight. The work of the Yankees against powerful western competition will be the feature of the American League games.

Veteran Star Discovers Way to Revive An Arm

By BILLY EVANS

Is it wise to use a veteran star pitcher as relief man when some Managers of major league clubs appear somewhat divided on this question. Some throw their veterans into the breach and some time it seems his presence on the rubber will save the game.

Others use the star of their staff only as a last resort and in games where the winning means much to their pennant chances.

It is doubtful if there ever was a greater relief pitcher than Ed Walsh, now acting as coach of the White Sox pitching staff. For a short time Walsh tried umpiring and was doubled up with me.

"How does it feel to be trotted out as the relief pitcher with the bases filled, knowing a base hit just about means the game for the opposition?" I once asked him.

"The feeling is none too pleasant at the time and a relief worse after it is all over," replied Walsh.

"I have worked, say three innings at top speed in order to save a game, and felt far more tired than after working a regular nine-inning affair."

Relief Work Is Hard

"Usually the relief pitcher is pressed to hold a scant lead. Often he doesn't get a chance to properly warm up."

"Act as relief pitcher for three or four innings in a tough ball game takes twice as much out of a pitcher as a game he starts."

Grover Cleveland Alexander, famous pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, is a good example of what pinch pitching exacts on the arm.

Alexander is one of the outstanding pitchers of all time. When in his prime, a relief pitcher was part of his regular program. If a game was to be saved in the old pinch, the job was invariably slipped to him.

Then there came a time in his career when he began to lose some of his effectiveness. He couldn't do many things as easily as 10 years back.

Alexander's Theory Correct

Last season Alexander apparently decided that pinch pitching was no longer his forte, that it was enough for him to start and finish games.

No doubt Manager Killefer concurred with Alexander in his view. Only once during the season was Alexander called upon to finish a game.

Given his regular rest of from three to four days between starts, Alexander, a star since 1911, had one of the best years of his career.

He worked in 38 games and of these won 22 and lost only 12, a most remarkable record. In all he worked 205 innings and didn't hit a batter, proof of his great control.

It is said that Manager Tris Speaker of the Cleveland Indians intends to adopt such a system with his veteran spitball star, Stanier Coveleski, this year.

"Cove" was once a flutten for work but appears to have passed his prime. If it works out well with Coveleski as it did Alexander, the Indians will profit greatly.

Famous Golf Club House Is Destroyed

ATLANTA, Ga., May 16.—The Druid Hills Golf club, famous throughout the South for its appointments, lay in ashes today, the result of a fire late yesterday in which four firemen were injured and property damage estimated at $100,000 was caused.

A meeting of the directors of the club was held today to plan for rebuilding the club house.

The Druid trophy, valued at $5,000 and awarded the holder of the southern golf championship, together with other cups and trophies, was saved.

Gets Chance

PHILADELPHIA, May 16.—Tousille gave Second Baseman Jimmy Dykes his chance to break back into the Philadelphia Athletics lineup after being relegated to the bench.

The way Dykes is going, it may take something worse than tonsillitis to get him out.

During the winter Connie Mack purchased Second Baseman Max Bishop from the Baltimore club of the International league. He was rated the star of the organization at that position.

Mack gave him the berth at second in preference to Dykes. He played second in the opener, then was taken sick.

Dykes was sent into the game and he started the Athletics in their winning ways. His fine work was instrumental in several victories.

BOSTON WINS, 10-7

PITTSBURGH, May 16.—Five Pittsburgh pitchers were unable to turn back Boston in a loose game played on a field made rocky by a two-day rain. The count was 10 to 7. Catcher Coach of Pittsburgh was ejected from the game when he disputed a decision by Umpire Quigley.

Nature's Way to Beauty

San Antonio, Texas.—"I used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it helped me very much in feminine trouble, and I am glad to tell others about it. When one can obtain this 'Favorite Prescription' at the drug stores there is no need suffering."—Mrs. Lulu Avery, 3419 So. Flores St.

If you are a woman suffering with chronic weakness peculiar to your sex you can be benefited by "Favorite Prescription."

THE NUT CRACKER

The Yankees got away to a flying start all right, like a blood-hunting dog, weighted down with sacks of lead.

In Detroit coaches are put through an elaborate test. Fortunately, no one as yet has suggested a similar policy for the Yankees.

Belgium is said to have had 350 strikes last year and Walter Johnson wasn't within 2000 miles of the place.

Habe Ruth made his first home run the other day and is now only 15 away from the record he wants to set.

A big league manager must be a good student of human nature, even if he doesn't get much chance to practice the gift.

We are just beginning to realize what the coaches mean when they say "Old Jim Johnson, as a presidential candidate, would take a lot of beating."

If the Marines ever decide to hold a golf championship the posters, of course, would be changed to read "Join the Marines and Explore the Sand Traps."

Now if Mike McEneaney will only come out and confess that his real name is Heine Spitzfinkler, or something like that, all will be forgiven.

The athletic Mr. Kipke leaves Michigan with fine letters and the shining ally at the next desk is hoping he at least has one for her.

Gold is to be introduced in the public high schools, but it would be more of a novelty if they introduced education.

First Stepup Socks Chile Champ For Row In 7th At Madison Square Ring

NEW YORK, May 16.—Quinten Romero, self styled lion of the Americas, took a severe round beating in Madison Square Garden last night to prove that there is only one Firpo in captivity.

Romero, imported from Chile by Tex Rickard to meet Firpo in an action proved a terrible bust as a fighter when he was stopped in the seventh round by Floyd Johnson.

Johnson gained little prestige, however, as it was the general opinion, that Jack Dempsey, Tom Gibbons or Firpo could have taken both of them in the same ring.

Romero showed the stout heart that Parisians had he had but he showed nothing else. He hit hard with his right hand but he didn't hit often enough and it swung wildly. His left hand was much better than Firpo's, but he didn't get much more out of it than Firpo did in his big fights.

Chilean Is Powerless

The Chilean champion was powerless to defend himself at close fighting and Johnson cut him to pieces with right hand uppercuts as he was exclaiming at close quarters or as Romero tore into Johnson with his head down.

Johnson's victory caught a lot of "wise money" in the jam. The smart gamblers figured that Romero had something in prospect and there was no good reason why Johnson should win.

When the Chilean was counted out, after having been on the floor three times in the previous round, a bunch of gamblers made an attempt to assault Andy Griffin, the counting timekeeper and then made an attack on several newspapermen. Police threw them out after a small riot.

Richard said today that Romero still had some possibilities. "He's got a fighter's heart. I had Jimmy De Forest look him over and maybe Jimmy can teach him something. He's kind of good but maybe he'll learn. I'm not through with him yet," he said.

Top Nation's Squash List

FILLMORE VAN S. HYDE

Yes, girls and boys, this is Fillmore Van S. Hyde, and you should be told that Fillmore is the country's very best squash player, and as such is placed at the top of the national squash ranking, with Thomas H. Coward in second position.

And please don't confuse squash with truck gardening, or the doctrine of vegetarianism.

It's a game of tennis, and a damned smart, scientific game, at that.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Three gardeners were trying to paint some roses.

The Twins loved a story, so the next day Mister Mugs took them to see Alice again, and to hear more about her adventures the time she went to Wonderland by way of the rabbit hole.

"After you left the tea-party, where did you go?" asked Nick, when they were all seated in the orchard, and Alice and Nancy had started to make daisy chains.

"Oh, dear, dear! That was funny!" laughed Alice. "I went to the palace of the King and Queen of Hearts. They were made of cards and all their servants were cards, and all their trying to paint some roses on a rose-bush red, because they had made a mistake and planted white ones against the queen's orders."

"When the queen saw it she cried 'Off with their heads!' but I hid all of the gardeners in a flower-pot, so they were safe."

"It must have been a queer place! Was the queen nice to you?" asked Nick.

"Sort of," sighed Alice. She asked me a silly question and when I said, 'How should I know?' she cried 'Off with her head!' It seemed to be the only thing she knew."

"I don't call that polite," remarked Nancy. "And did they?"

"See for yourself," said Alice, waving her hand hard. "I said 'None' quite firmly, and it seemed like that was all that was said."

"That was a fine story, and we've ever so much altered," said Mister Mugs. "Say good-by, children, and come home. We must be going."

"Good-by," said Alice. "I hope you can go to Wonderland some day."

Salesmanship Club Is Proposal By Power

Organization of a salesmanship club and the inauguration of a salesmanship course for the benefit of local business men and their employees will be perfected if plans being considered by Leonard Power and the board of directors of the Retail Merchants association are carried out. Power, president of Port Arthur Business College, was understood to have conferred with officials of the Retail Merchants association this morning at 10 o'clock in the Chamber of Commerce building, relative to the bringing of a specialist in business salesmanship from the east to Port Arthur.

The idea of such an organization and such a school is to better the local business houses to cope with the problems of salesmanship with which they are confronted almost daily, it is understood.
